Corby Glen, Lincolnshire, St John the Evangelist

The ring of five was augmented to six by adding the pre-2010 3rd bell from St Albans Abbey and replacing the existing treble with the pre-2010 4th bell from St Albans Abbey. The work was completed during February 2013.

The old treble has been installed at Catworth, Cambridgeshire as the treble of six.

Lincoln, Lincolnshire, St Benedict

Subject to faculty and fund-raising a light ring of eight bells is to be installed in St Benedict's church. It is hoped that this will become a base for a Lincoln University Society and that the ring will be used for the training of new recruits.

Tealby, Lincolnshire, All Saints

The original ring of four bells date from the early 15th century (treble) to 1704 for the W. Noone tenor bell. The bells were re-hung in a modern six-bell frame some years ago and the project was to add two bells to complete the ring. An initial enquiry made to the Trust resulted in a choice of bells for the treble of six. We were aware of the immediate availability of a bell cast by Newcombe dated 1614 and of a modern Gillett & Johnston bell, the latter owned by the Trust. The parish decided to acquire the modern bell and obtained a suitable second-hand headstock and wheel to fit.

The Trust located another bell to complete the ring. The surplus bell came from the church of St Andrew, Plymouth and has been tuned to become the 2nd of the ring of six. The augmented ring was re-dedicated on November 17th 2001.
